From the station car park, go to the Lalique Museum.

Follow the white-barred yellow rectangle, and shortly before leaving the village, continue along the path that goes up to the right and leads to the Deutsch cemetery and then to Rosteig. Cross the creek and turn right into Schusselthal street. Continue on the Herrenwald forest road which leads to the forest house of the Column. Cross it and take the direction of Kammerfelsen (remarkable rock).

250 m after the rock, turn right and follow the green ring until crossing with a red ring marked path. From there, possibility to go to the Museum of the Sabotier (250 m) following the latter on the left. Then go back and continue to Meisenthal, follow the green ring

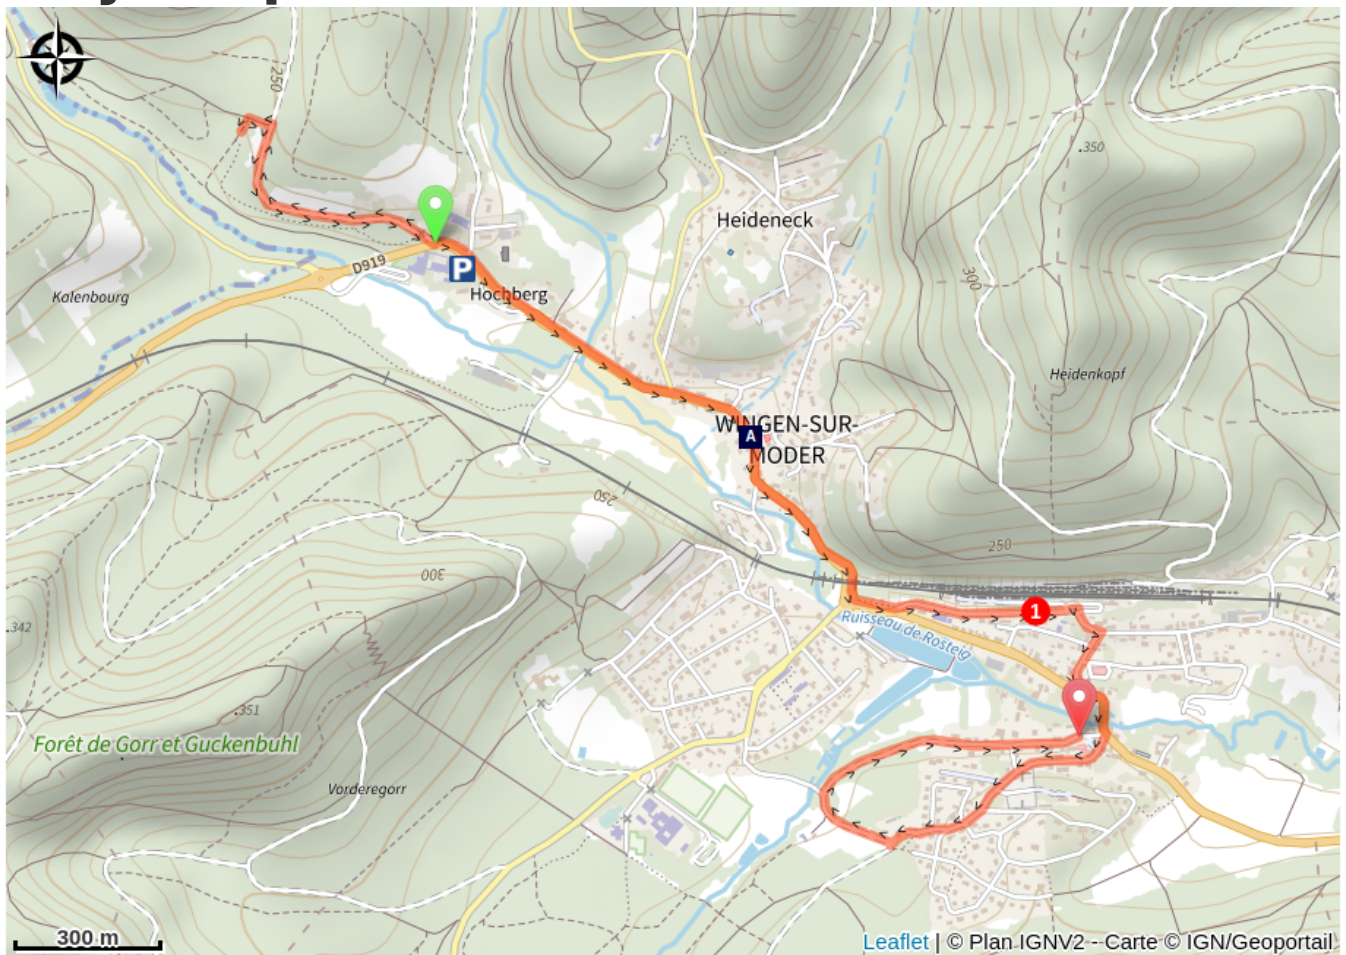

Down the alley of the Old Parish, follow the red ring that leads to the Museum of Glass and Crystal.

Back to the museum, take the rue des pierres in front following the yellow cross and go to the Colonne by a path that climbs to the right. Then, go to the left of Calvary and join the Stone of the 12 Apostles after crossing the D37 carefully.

Then take the direction of Wingen-sur-Moder. The marked blue triangle trail runs along the D12 for about 1 km before crossing and descending to the hamlet of Stauffersberg.

Continue to Wingen-sur-Moder following the blue ring. On the way, you can go to the Heidenkopf Rock (beautiful panorama). The Lalique Crystal, installed here since 1921, can be seen entering Wingen (not to visit). Pass under the bridge of the railway and turn right in the street of the goldsmiths. At the intersection, go back to the station.
