

Peatland discovery route

Pays de Bitche - Philippsbourg

Etang de Hanau (PNRVN)

This original course crisscrossing a peat swamp will delight fans of unusual flora and fauna!

A peat bog is a wetland, colonized by vegetation, whose particular ecological conditions have allowed the formation of a soil consisting of a real fossil plant rock. In the case of the Hanau peat bog, mainly Sphagnum (mosses that absorb large amounts of water), but thanks to the association with the pond and peat habitats, the site is also rich in dragonflies and amphibians.
